The French Woman.

The charm of the French woman has been proverbial for many centuries. It has been celebrated by the travellers of all nations as well as by her compatriots.
But it has rarely been recognized by a foreigner without being coupled with an unpleasant assumption that she is as frivolous as she is charming, which is a matter of fact, she is as capable as she is charming, charming because she is capable, and all things considered, the most practical woman in the world.She was a business woman ages before it became the fashion to talk about the enlargement of woman's sphere. For generations she has engaged in trading of every sort, either in real partnership with her husband or independently—not to test a principle or vindicate a theory, but because this sort of activity comes naturally to her. The widow who used to seem so extraordinary to the English Ancient members of the aristocracy, the only at Brattleboro because she ran successfully both a hotel and a blacksmith shop, was in no sense an exception, but only a fair sample of the hundreds of thousands of business women in France.—

A FACT PROVEN.

Should Convince Even the Most Skepminds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the germs became bald in six weeks' time.It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germs
